NAZIS REPULSED TRYING TO ESCAPE TRAP

Bradley's Troops Amass Strength To Capture Port

U. S. Ninth Division Crushes German Attempt To Burst Out of American Net 13 Miles Due South of Cherbourg

SHELL BARRAGE OF ENEMY BECOMING HEAVIER

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 19—(P)—The U. S. Ninth Division has crushed a German attempt to burst out of the American trap bottling up perhaps 25,000 to 40,000 Nazis below Cherbourg, hurling back a thrust 13 miles due south of the port, headquarters announced today.

The Germans lashed out in the darkness in a heavy local attack near St. Jacques de Nahou, but were thrown back with heavy losses.

Toward the eastern flank of the 116-mile Normandy front, British forces battled into the northern end of shell-torn Tilly-sur-Seulles, with the Germans still holding in the southern part of the town between Bayeux and Caen.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's troops, laying siege to Cherbourg after thrusting a seven-mile-wide corridor clear across the peninsula, now are building up strength for "the next step," supreme headquarters said.

German guns laid a heavier shell barrage on American-held Carentan, stronghold near the eastern base of Cherbourg peninsula.

Other Americans on the northeastern end of the line choking off Cherbourg fought toward the port from the Montebourg area, 14 miles to the southeast.

The trapped Germans appeared to have the choice of fighting to the death or surrendering.

The spearhead of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's spectacular drive to capture this big port, developed by Napoleon, was the U. S. Ninth Division. Capture of French naval base would be an old story for this division, for the Ninth broke through German defenses to take Bizer, Tunisia, 13 months ago under Maj. Gen. Manton E. Eddy.

United States forces that severed the peninsula were busy investigating their break-through patch to the Atlantic coast, which even last night was seven miles wide. They were driving the Germans down toward La Haye Du Puits, big road junction seven miles south of St. Sauveur Le Vicomte, into what appeared to be another trap, for

Firing Squad Ends Life of Murderer

Salt Lake City, June 19—(P)—Blackbearded Austin Cox forfeited his life before the guns of a Utah firing squad at dawn today as penalty for slaying five persons.

The 39-year-old, six-foot, four-inch killer refused ministrations of the prison chaplain, shoved Sheriff John R. Watson with his elbows when Watson asked him for a last word and stuck out his tongue as the death warrant was read.

Moaning or humming tunelessly, Cox spoke not a word from the time he was led from his cell in death row.

The four bullets fired by a five-man rifle squad—one gun had a blank shell—smashed into Cox's body. Two of the bullets hit the center of the target placed over the heart. One struck near its outer edge and the fourth just off the target.

Utah law gives a condemned man the choice of death by hanging or shooting.

BABY ELECTROCUTED

West Conshohocken, June 19—(P)—A year-old baby was fatally shocked in the living room of his home last night when he came in contact with an exposed lamp wire. Resuscitation efforts by the parents of John McGuire, Jr., failed to revive him and he was pronounced dead at Bryn Mawr Hospital.

The agreement was reached in discussions inside Yugoslavia by Dr. Ivan Subasic, representing King Peter and Marshal Tito themselves. Preliminary meetings took place here. A communiqué on the "mutual accord" was announced yesterday from advanced Allied headquarters.

Soviet Armies Score Advances on Right Wing and Continue Along Lake Ladoga

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, June 19—(AP)—Soviet field dispatches declared today that the Red Army had smashed forward to the threshold of Viipuri, key city in southern Finland, after breaking the Mannerheim line and capturing Koivisto fortress at the mouth of Viipuri bay.

Further inland on the Karelian isthmus the Russians were reported to have driven two and a half miles past the Mannerheim line in the Murila sector.

While the Red Army's left flank had made the most progress along the Gulf of Finland, dispatches said that the right wing on the opposite side of the isthmus was now advancing along Lake Ladoga, capturing numerous points.

Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leninist forces which launched the offensive nine days ago appeared to have broken the back of the Finnish army after piercing the enemy's three lines in the defense of Karelia and prospects for an early complete victory over Finland seemed bright.

The Red army reached the Mannerheim Line Saturday, three days after breaking the Raivola-Yoki Line, and breached the old Mannerheim forts yesterday in a single swift rush.

The Russians attacked at dawn yesterday, smashing enemy pillboxes and trenches with artillery fire. After the barrage only granite tank barriers remained intact.

Red army infantry chased the survivors out of the fortifications, took the villages of Murila and Ilagirila and pushed two more miles beyond the line until checked by fire from Koivisto fort.

Warships of the Red Baltic fleet promptly shelled Koivisto island and the mainland fort.

The Russians were reported advancing up Viipuri Bay, with infantry moving in trucks and artillery towed by tractors pressing closely on the heels of the Finns.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) brought from Nelson a statement that 200,000 workers should be shifted from their present locations "tomorrow" to "things already done" with the war program.

The War Production Board chairman tested before the Senate war investigating committee, on reconversion problems and a WPB modification of restrictions on use of aluminum and magnesium.

SEEKING GAME PRESERVE

The Wilder tract, located in this county near Spring Creek is sought both by a lumber company and the Corry Rod and Gun Club. The tract contains 1027 acres and is assessed at $5,135. Lumber was taken from the tract over 70 years ago and a stand of second growth now covers it. Pittsburgh parties own the land and it may be that the lumber interests will get the timber and the sportsmen the land.

WILL CHARGE CANS

Fire Chief Alabaugh this morning notified the Times Mirror that he is making a series of inspections about the city and has found that most of the soda and acid extinguishers have not been recharged for two or three years. If the owners of these and similar fire extinguishers take them to the nearest fire stations they will be recharged with the only cost being for the chemicals used.

RWARD OFFERED

The latest in a series of cottage robberies has brought to the Pennsylvania State Police an offer of a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible. Anyone having such information is asked to contact the local barracks, with the understanding that all information will be held in strictest confidence by the officials. These robberies, involving in most cases articles of a household nature, are principally in cottages and camps used only during the hunting season and are frequently not discovered and reported until some time after the entry and thefts have occurred, making most difficult the task of following old trails and stale clues.

ATLANTIC WALL

The fateful fortnight which has encompassed Allied tanks and fears for more than two years ends tonight, and the Germans have failed to mount either the beachhead defense or the massed counter-attack which had been expected.

As a matter of fact, a comparatively small Allied initial force harassed by unseasonable bad weather which interferes with both reinforcement and supply, has engaged approximately one-fourth of the estimated German strength in France and found it only a hindrance.

To be sure, undue optimism is never proper when dealing with the Reichswehr. You can be sure that it has been busily repairing road blocks and bridges swept by the pre-invasion aerial hurricane of the Allies. Paris is a hundred miles away, we have been only preparing to go there, and there may be Cassinos on the way.

But as the fortnight ends during which we expected to learn whether the beachhead would be secure, we do learn, and it is. Not only that, but the campaign for capture of a great port, through which reinforcements can flow by the tens of thousands rather than the hundreds and thousands possible on the open beach, moves, duly according to plan. Word from the Cherbourg peninsula is that the Americans crossed to the western shore through the very points, along the very country roads, as envisaged long ago in the offices of the planners.

There may not be any refugees from Sebastopol—there weren't many, anyway—at Cherbourg, but there are 25,000 to 30,000 Germans there, the reports say, who are about to learn the same lesson. The fate of the German 77th division, which battered itself into small pieces against the American line in an effort to escape, is sufficient harbinger of that.

The Germans will make every effort to spoil Cherbourg. But Naples was proof of what the Allies are prepared to do with quick repairs. Soon a great army, landed on each side and sheltered overhead by dominant sea and air support, will be forming on the peninsula or the real drive into Hitler's domains. And Von Rundstedt, if he hopes to stop it, will have to produce something more formidable than he has shown so far, including his "scattergun" rocket bombs.

We are just beginning to get some inkling as to how far from easy were the initial landings on the Normandy coast. For the first few days everybody wondered why the Germans didn't try harder to stop us. Now we have the answer—they did. They just weren't good enough to halt the Juggernaut we sent across the channel, though many thousands of American homes will learn eventually how much damage they accomplished.

Perhaps the enormity of our venture and the difficulty with which—we are learning now—it has succeeded thus far will placate those hotheads who were all bothered because we didn't row or swim the channel a year ago without the long preparation that now has made success possible.

PEARL HARBOR PROBE

The House Military Affairs Committee makes it obvious that there is a great deal more behind the fiasco at Pearl Harbor than the public yet knows. Whether or not its charges against Col. Theodore Wyman Jr. stand up, the very fact that such allegations come out, for the first time at this late date, makes it clear that the whole sad business needs a thorough, honest and final airing.

It seems incredible that there is any security reason, in the nature of secrecy, why the matter should not be cleared up immediately. The armed forces do not want officers now engaged in fighting our enemies to be brought back to give testimony at court-martial; and that is proper. But how about at least an inquiry by deposition that will clear up part of the mystery?

We hate to think that here and there around the world there may be other officers against whom such charges as those against Colonel Wyman might pop up from time to time.

SCRAP THAT OLD PLATE

Despite all warnings which have been issued by state officials, many motorists continue to display two license plates—one old and expired and the other new and valid—on their cars.

In urging motorists to discard old plates, officials point out that use of expired tags is a violation of the motor vehicle laws, and that, furthermore, it may cause trouble for other car owners. Instances are reported in which citizens, getting their information from the front plate, "turned in" the license number of alleged violators to the distress of motorists whose valid tags bear the same numbers as those on the expired and illegally used plates.

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

SAN FRANCISCO — Not since

Pecos Bill rode into camp on a mountain lion, using a live rattlesnake for a quirt; or since Paul Bunyan arrived to shake down San Francisco, using big redwoods for toothpicks, has the west had a hero like Henry J. Kaiser.

To California and the rest of the Pacific coast, the big, burly industrial magnate is a miracle man. He strides up and down the coast from Seattle to San Diego; hops off to the nation's capital and gives the industrial east a piece of his mind, and returns to find the west hanging on his every word.

Kaiser's reputation is based on fabulous accomplishment. A whole network of production from raw materials in the western hinterlands to finished ships and super planes stems from his four floors of central offices in midtown Oakland just across the bay. Industrial California has mushroomed in a couple of years until only production centers like Detroit, Pittsburgh and Chester, Pa., can claim any comparison.

But if Henry J. Kaiser stopped there, the Pacific coast probably would be relegating him to limbo. He doesn't. The west has one great worry. It's simply what's going to happen when this is all over. California alone has added more than a million population since the last census and billions of dollars in wartime contracts. Kaiser is operating five huge shipyards in the San Francisco bay area, to mention only one section. Once sprawling little Richmond, for example, had about 20,000 population. Now it has about 100,000.

Communities and states like these that don't look ahead are living in a fool's paradise and most Pacific coasters know it. The thing that makes Henry J. Kaiser the fabled character that he is out here is that he has answers for everything.

Perhaps you've already heard of Kaiser's post-war plans for building supercargo and passenger planes, for high-speed trains to replace the rolling stock rapidly shaking to pieces under the pressure of wartime transportation.

Kaiser doesn't stop there. There's hardly a fortnight that he doesn't come out with some new scheme for keeping the west in the industrial picture and the west gobbles it up—simply because it is positive that what Henry Kaiser has done over and over again in wartime, he can do once more in peacetime.

What makes California credulous is that Kaiser makes it sound so easy and in the past has never failed to make good his words. If the industrial east wants to stay that way, it had better start figuring how to beat Kaiser to the draw. Ten or 15 million people out there think he's the fastest man on earth.

Sad Heroics

What It Means

By LARRY ALLEN

THE world may know within a fortnight how long the war in Europe may last.

For Germany's High Command says the supreme test will come when the Allied armies hit the "Rommel Reception Line."

That's the name given to the great bastion upon which Nazi Germany bases her hopes of repulsing or holding the Allied invaders.

It's the "Second Atlantic Wall."

As I got the picture from Germans and the German press while in a German prison camp, this is a powerful chain of "command forts" stretching from Ghent in Belgium to Rennes, due south of Cherbourg. This was the area in which the Germans expected attack, but at Rennes the line presumably connects with Brittany peninsula defenses.

I cannot say positively that it was not propaganda, although it did not fit the usual pattern of campaigns to boost home morale or confuse the Allies, but here is how the Germans described the line:

It is composed of vast underground, heavily fortified defenses, bristling with thousands of heavy caliber guns and mazes of anti-tank traps.

The line at no point is less than thirty miles and no more than 60 miles inland from the Atlantic Coast.

It runs from Ghent to Arras, thence slightly west of Paris along the Seine river, thence southward to Argentan and finally Rennes as the southernmost end.

A few weeks before the Allies stormed the "fortress of Europe" General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel thoroughly inspected the "second Atlantic wall."

He told German newspapermen:

"Here the enemy shall not pass. This will be the supreme and crucial test. Every one of these positions must be and will be defended to the last man."

Rommel, ace master of defense for Nazi Germany and nicknamed "the desert fox" because of his brilliant exploits in North Africa, is supported in this view by Western Commander General Field Marshal von Rundstedt.

There is little question but what one of the biggest show-downs and the first real test of power will come when the Allies smash against this line.

It's Germany's "knock down and drag out" barrier.

Even Reichsminister for Propaganda Dr. Paul Josef Goebbels, writing in his newspaper, Das Reich last month, finally admitted that "we cannot stop the enemy from landing but we can and we will stop him after he has landed."

Germany's "Second Atlantic Wall," with much accent upon its alleged invincibility, has been topline news in Germany newspapers ever since the last of April.

Every German appeared to be convinced that it is on the "Rommel Reception Line" that the Allies would be stopped.

But they're nevertheless looking ahead to the future by saying that even if "by some diabolical perversion of fate" the Allies should smash through Atlantic Wall No. 2, they still have the reversed once-famous "Maginot Line" and the original "Siegfried Line" facing them as major headaches.

No German I have seen appears to be seriously worried about these possibilities. To them, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is still tantamount to the Divine and until shown otherwise, they think Hitler knows the answer.

Germany's crack air, naval and military strategists, in articles analyzing the Allied chances of success, have declared that they must secure at least two good ports, such as Le Havre and Cherbourg, within two weeks after the initial assault, or their attack is doomed to failure.

These same strategists said that within two weeks after the invasion starts, the answer will begin to crystallize as to whether the Allies can smash Germany's military power, or will crash against an "unbreakable" line of steel and be stalemated, as at Cassino, in Italy.

And if the latter should happen, the Nazi High Command believes that the worst that could possibly happen to Germany would be to emerge with a negotiated peace—and that, in a German's opinion, would be tantamount to victory.

Summer car care "musts!"

Check air pressure and wheel alignment to conserve tires. Proper inflation in hot weather is very important.

Change oil when necessary. Oil breaks down under excessive heat. Make sure your oil filter is working efficiently.

Watch your fan belt. Keep it tight to assure efficient cooling. Costly repairs can result from neglect.

Don't overlook your battery. Evaporation is more rapid in hot weather. Add water frequently as needed.

Watch all water connections to avoid unsuspected leaks. Hose may have deteriorated and need replacing.

Wax and polish car to keep it bright and attractive . . . a good investment!

Newhouser, Tiger Southpaw Finally Fulfils His Ambition To Become Leading "Lefty"

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Hal Newhouser, of the Detroit Tigers, finally is fulfilling the promise he gave five years ago of becoming the finest lefthander in the American League.

The 23-year-old southpaw yesterday became the first pitcher in the league to win 10 games, helping the Tigers take both games of a double header from the league-leading St. Louis Browns, 2-1 and 7-5.

He joins Bucky Walters of the Cincinnati Reds as the only 10-game winners in the majors. Endowed with terrific speed and a sharp-breaking curve ball, which helped him strike out 54 men this year, three behind Jack Kramer, the league leader, Newhouser pitched brilliantly at times, but in his four prior years, always lost more than he won.

In pitching his seventh complete game of the year, Hal gave up six hits and fanned five in the opener. A home run by Rudy York with one in the ninth gave the Tigers a clean sweep. Paul Trout, in relief, won his eighth victory of the season.

The New York Giants took both ends of a twin bill from the Boston Braves, 9-2 and 7-1, to climb into third place in the National League standings, a half game ahead of the Reds. Phil Weintraub homered in the first game, but had to leave in the third inning because of a strained muscle. Cliff Melton, making his first start since May 19, was the winner in the nightcap but retired in the seventh inning complaining of a sore arm.

Forge Stages Counter-Attack Against Erie Pontiacs After Stalemate Lasting 6 Innings

The National Forge continued its winning ways against the Erie Pontiacs taking a lop-sided game Sunday at Wilder Field by the score of 18 to 2. For the first six innings Erie led Forge 2 to 1, but this was some kind of a tip-off to the locals who staged a counter-attack on Gaines with the score knotted 2-2 and runners on first and third when J. Massa drove his second home run of the season onto the pavement in deep right field.

Forge pushed four more over in the seventh and followed by seven more in the eighth. J. Massa, Morrison and Rosequist led the hitting with three each. McKinney and Gagliardi each had two hits. Natale and Hines were the only regulars on the team who failed to get a bingie.

Hines was in his usual fine form chalking up his fourth win of the season. Freeborough relieved him in the seventh and pitched shut out ball.

The largest crowd of the season was on hand to see the Forge's break loose—as had been predicted.

The Meadville Pioneers will be the attraction at Wilder Field Sunday, June 25th at three p. m.

Borst and Reid Are Arrested Following Break From Jail

Harold Borst, 20, and Alvin Harry Reid, 18, the two boys who escaped from the county jail Thursday afternoon were arrested in Ridgway Friday after having been tracked to the home of a half-sister, Mrs. Percy Simons. The boys got out of jail here, hid in the woods nearby until late Friday night and then walked to Roystone where they hitchhiked to Kane and from there got to Ridgway.

The arrest of the boys followed a tip telephoned to the Borough Police Station by Mrs. Martin Carlson, Jackson Run road. Lieut. M. Evan took the call and after summoning Sheriff L. E. Linder the two officers drove to Kane. Here they contacted Chief of Police Pat Nelsen and he aided them in their search there. It was discovered that the boys had broken into the home of Reid's father and taken some cigarettes. Tracks leading from the house to the railroad tracks pointed toward Ridgway. Chief Nelson told the officers Reid had a half-sister in Ridgway and so they drove to that place. Chief Harry Hill and men of the Ridgway force accompanied the Warren officers to the relatives home where both boys were caught. They surrendered with no trouble to the officers and were returned to the jail here.

According to the story told to the officers by the boys they broke out of the jail and ran to Fifth avenue. From there they went to the hillside and hid in a dense copse of woods until late Thursday night. They then walked across the hill and came down at Beech street. Continuing their way west they got to the FN railroad tower. There they changed their plans and coming back to Warren went up on the hill again coming down on Fifth avenue. Crossing the Fifth avenue bridge across the Conewango creek the boys dodged cars, etc., and got down to Oak street and crossed the river on the railroad bridge. There they took to the railroad tracks and walked all night. About 5:45 they hailed a Butterkust bread truck driven by Martin Carlson and rode into Kane. They told the driver they were going to visit their grandmother.

At Kane they entered the house of Reid's father opening a window to gain entrance. A package of cigarettes was taken and the boys again hit the railroad tracks. At Ridgway both were tired out and wanted to sleep.

When Carlson returned home after his days work he read in The Times-Mirror of the jail break and Mrs. Carlson called the police.

Officers had staged an intensive hunt for the pair on Thursday and Sheriff Linder had secured an airplane and flew low over the vicinity hoping to spot the lads. Local police officers scoured the hills near where the boys were hiding and stayed out almost all night on the hunt.

Both boys seem downcast over the failure of their dash for liberty to avoid serving the sentences that had been imposed on them by Judge Allison Wade for their robberies of the Julius Johnson and the Mrs. Anna Larason store on the east side. Borst had been sentenced to serve not less nor more than two years in the Allegheny County Workhouse and Reid had been sentenced to the Pennsylvania Training School at Morgantown for an indeterminate term.

Both were thoroughly tired out after their all night walk and were practically exhausted when picked up by the officers about 9:30 Friday night.

They will undoubtedly be arraigned on a charge of jail breaking in court following preparation of the necessary papers by District Attorney Goldstein.

Bradley's Troops Amass Strength To Capture Port

U. S. Ninth Division Crushes German Attempt To Burst Out of American Net 13 Miles Due South of Cherbourg

SHELL BARRAGE OF ENEMY BECOMING HEAVIER

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 19—(P)—The U. S. Ninth Division has crushed a German attempt to burst out of the American trap bottling up perhaps 25,000 to 40,000 Nazis below Cherbourg, hurling back a thrust 13 miles due south of the port, headquarters announced today.

The Germans lashed out in the darkness in a heavy local attack near St. Jacques de Naou, but were thrown back with heavy losses.

Toward the eastern flank of the 116-mile Normandy front, British forces battled into the northern end of shell-torn Tilly-sur-Seulles,

Greater Part Of Elba Held By Colonials

By LYNN HEINZERLING

Rome, June 19—(P)—French colonial battalions captured Portoferraio and now hold the "greater part of the island of Elba," headquarters announced today, while on the Italian peninsula mud-spattered Allied troops made gains on both flanks on the center of their line, taking Assisi, the birthplace of St. Francis.

German guns laid a heavier shell barrage on American-held Carentan, stronghold near the eastern base of Cherbourg peninsula.

Other Americans on the northeastern end of the line choking off Cherbourg fought toward the port from the Montebourgh area, 14 miles to the southeast.

The trapped Germans appeared to have the choice of fighting to the death or surrendering.

The spearhead of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's spectacular drive to capture this big port, developed by Napoleon, was the U. S. Ninth Division. Capture of French naval base would be an old story for this division, for the Ninth broke through German defenses to take Bizerte, Tunisia, 13 months ago under Maj. Gen. Manton E. Eddy.

United States forces that severed the peninsula were busy widening their break-through patch to the Atlantic coast, which even last night was seven miles wide. They were driving the Germans down on the east coast.

Fifth and Eighth Army troops in Italy are meeting increasing resistance as they drive the Germans back toward the Pisa-Rimini line, but more villages have been taken and strong pressure is being exerted against the stubborn German garrison at the central sector road hub of Perugia, 86 miles north of Rome and about 72 miles southeast of Florence.

Firing Squad Ends Life of Murderer

Salt Lake City, June 19—(P)—Blackbearded Austin Cox forfeited his life before the guns of a Utah firing squad at dawn today as penalty for slaying five persons.

The 39-year-old, six-foot, four-inch killer refused ministrations of the prison chaplain, shoved Sheriff John R. Watson with his elbows when Watson asked him for a last word and stuck out his tongue as the death warrant was read.

Moaning or humming tunelessly, Cox spoke not a word from the time he was led from his cell in death row.

The four bullets fired by a five-man rifle squad—one gun had a blank shell—smashed into Cox's body. Two of the bullets hit the center of the target placed over the heart. One struck near its outer edge and the fourth just off the target.

Utah law gives a condemned man the choice of death by hanging or shooting.

BABY ELECTROCUTED

Yugo-Slav Leaders Reach An Accord

Bari, Italy, June 19—(P)—The royal Yugoslav government of youthful King Peter and the fighting Partisan movement under Marshal Tito have announced an accord "on many problems," with a view to strengthening relations with the Allies and aiding the Yugoslav peoples in their fight for independence.

The agreement was reached in discussions inside Yugoslavia by Dr. Ivan Subasic, representing King Peter, and Marshal Tito himself. Preliminary meetings took place here. A communiqué on the "mutual accord" was announced yesterday from advanced Allied headquarters.

C. I. O. Political Committee Facing Test In Maine Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The strength of the CIO Political Action Committee in Maine was tested at the polls today as voters picked party nominees for three house seats and governor.

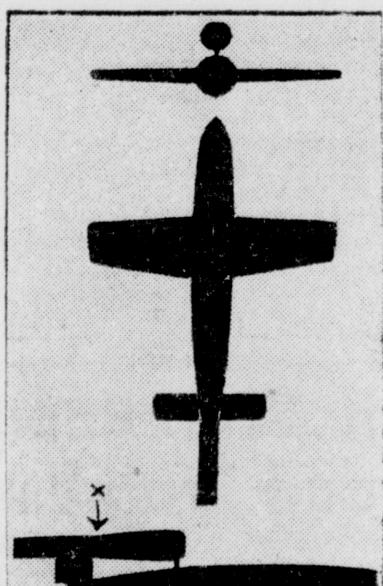

In the first congressional district, which includes the shipbuilding centers of Portland and Bath, Republican Andrew A. Pettis, president of the Portland CIO Shipyard, Local, was trying for both major party nominations with the endorsement of Maine's United Labor Committee. The incumbent, Robert Hale, a Republican, is seeking renomination.

Since Maine's general election comes early, Sept. 11, state results have been watched in the past as a possible weather-vane indicating national trends.

Soviet Armies Score Advances on Right Wing and Continue Along Lake Ladoga

FINNS DEMORALIZED

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, June 19—(AP)—Soviet field dispatches declared today that the Red Army had smashed forward to the threshold of Viipuri, key city in southern Finland, after breaking the Mannerheim line and capturing Koiwisto fortress at the mouth of Viipuri bay.

Further inland on the Karelian isthmus the Russians were reported to have driven two and a half miles past the Mannerheim line in the Muria sector.

While the Red Army's left flank had made the most progress along the Gulf of Finland, dispatches said that the right wing on the opposite side of the isthmus now was advancing along Lake Ladoga, capturing numerous points.

Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad forces which launched the offensive nine days ago appeared to have broken the back of the Finnish army after piercing the enemy's three lines in the defense of Karelia and prospects for an early complete victory over Finland seemed bright.

The Red army reached the Mannerheim Line Saturday, three days after breaking the Raivola-Yoki Line, and breached the old Mannerheim forts yesterday in a single swift rush.

The Russians attacked at dawn yesterday, smashing enemy pillboxes and trenches with artillery fire. After the barrage only granite tank barriers remained intact.

Red army infantry chased the survivors out of the fortifications, took the villages of Murila and Iiagirila and pushed two more miles beyond the line until checked by fire from Koiwisto fort.

Warships of the Red Baltic fleet promptly shelled Koiwisto island and the mainland fort.

The Bondwagon goes to Clearfield Saturday.

Early Success Is Predicted By Churchill

London, June 19—(P)—Prime Minister Churchill, in a speech delivered at the Mexican embassy four days ago and permitted to be published only today, said the months of this summer may bring full success to the cause of freedom.

He said the invasion of Normandy was a great tactical surprise to the Germans who did not know it was coming until they saw the ships and "it may be that events will occur in the next few months which will show us whether we are soon to be released of the curse which has been laid upon us by the Germans."

The invasion was launched "in full accord" with the Russians and the decisions reached at Teheran, he added, "and although the execution of the plans adopted there is far from being complete, it is being steadily unrolled, and the months of this summer may by the victories of this Allied campaign bring full success to the cause of freedom."

Touching on political aspects of the war, the prime minister said efforts were being made "to achieve permanent cooperation and to build up an organization which after this war will strengthen us."

Waste Paper Collection In Boro and County Wednesday

"How many Warren county boys are in the shell-torn orchards of Normandy?"

"How many Warren borough citizens are willing to help those boys, in a very easy manner?"

Both questions were asked this morning by W. T. Corbett, chairman of the Warren County Salvage Committee.

"Of course, we cannot give an accurate answer to the first question," Mr. Corbett went on. "However, we know that many of them are there in the thick of the fight. I do not believe Warren borough will fail to back them up by making our borough paper collection an overwhelming success."

The collection will take place Wednesday, June 21, day after tomorrow. Trucks will call at the curb to make the pick-up in the borough and also in the areas of Glad and Pleasant townships. A goal of 75 tons has been set, which amounts to about ten pounds per capita. Although Warren county reached its paper quota in the month of March and April, it fell down in May with a deficit of 41 tons. Proceeds from the Wednesday pick-up will be earmarked as Warren county's first donation toward the fall quota of the United War Fund.

It is urged that every Warren citizen do his part by collecting every scrap of paper in his house, his garage, or elsewhere on the premises. Papers should be tied in separate bundles; newspapers in one, magazines in a second, cardboard and kraft paper in the third. All packages should be tied tightly with twine and should be on the curb early Wednesday morning.

The paper problem is not alone a Warren county problem. Pennsylvania is not supply enough paper to keep our mills operating full time. One of the largest mills in the state had to shut down for days in May for the lack of 3,000 tons of waste paper to keep it going. Only 22 of the state's 67 counties exceeded their quotas. The state of Pennsylvania as a whole is doing only about an 80% job on paper collection.

That is why Warren citizens must not fail day after tomorrow.

U. S. Heavies 500 to 700 Strong Hit German Bases In Southwestern France Today

SUPPORTING INVADERS

By GLADWIN HILL

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, June 19—(AP)—U. S. heavy bombers 500 to 700 strong hammered Hitler's rocket bomb launching area at Pas de Calais today as more of the pilotless explosives hurried over into England, and other big Allied planes struck heavily at German air bases in southwestern France.

Fighter-bombers, attacking at the rate of one a minute, drove home a three-ply assault in direct support of the invasion forces. One wave pounded Guam heavily for the first time in the war. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, in announcing that this former American base had been shelled last Thursday, gave no indication as to whether an invasion was in prospect.

Fifteen hundred miles to the south, just below the equator, Mitchell medium bombers and escorting P-38 fighters temporarily neutralized Japan's last remaining effective airbase in New Guinea. They destroyed 50 enemy planes at Sorong and sank five enemy merchantmen and half a dozen smaller vessels.

Nimitz also announced that army Liberators and navy Venturas bombed Matsuwa, Paramushiru, Shumushiru and Shumushiru islands in the Kurile chain Wednesday and Thursday and shot down one of the 34 intercepting planes.

Radio Tokyo reported that hundreds of bombers and fighters attacked Iwo Island in the Kazan group 750 miles northwest of Saipan. Friday, American planes raided the Kazan and Bonin islands for the first time on Wednesday, destroying 47 Japanese planes and sinking or damaging more than a dozen ships or small water craft.

The Saipan beachhead established by marines, with the support of army infantry units, at last reports extended from Agiguan point on the southwestern tip, where the Americans landed last Wednesday, five and a half miles up the west coast almost to Garapan, the island's largest town.

Among the warships protecting the American forces on Saipan was a World War I destroyer converted into a destroyer transport. Nimitz said this warship, unladen, sunk five enemy coastal freighters. Twenty-nine survivors were captured.

Mitchells and Lightnings which raided Sorong, northwestern Dutch New Guinea, Friday, shot down 29 enemy planes and destroyed 21 on the ground, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

An examination showed that the car license gave the man's name, address and date of birth, June 3, 1898. It also bore cards asking that in event of death or accident Milton Heidlund, 8 Dunn Avenue, Jamestown be notified.

A Gladstone bag containing personal effects was on the front seat of the car and a leather sample case and various packages of samples of roofing were in the space between the front and rear seats. The trunk of the car was filled with samples of roofing. The car was a Buick sedanette with license number CX-432.

The body was taken in charge by the Henderson & Lincoln funeral home of Jamestown, N. Y., and (Turn to Page Seven)

Washington, June 19—(P)—Replies from the invasion beach head that expenditures of tank were three times the expected rate has prompted the military high command to order an "extreme" heavy increase in production.

Military sources said that American plants which stopped tank production some months ago must renew tank manufacture. United States tank output was cut more than half after the North African campaign during which American tank destroyers and artillery smashed German armored units.

Huge quantities of steel will be needed for the stepped up production

Co. Democrats in Favor Of A fourth Term

At a meeting of the Democratic County Committee for Warren County held at the Townsend Club rooms on Pennsylvania avenue last Friday evening, John O. Anna was unanimously re-elected county chairman. There was good attendance of committee members and a majority of those present expressed themselves as in favor of a fourth term for President Roosevelt and a continuance of the present Democratic administration. H. W. Frost, one of Warren's leading Democrats and elected vice chairman, M. R. Apava, of Sheffield, was re-elected secretary and treasurer for another two year term.

The following were elected members of the executive committee: Earl Ruland, Pinegrove township; Stephen West, Mead township; Frank Summers, Pittsfield township; W. S. Murray, Kinzua township; Joseph E. McCloskey, Tidioute. The following were appointed to serve as members of the same committee by Chairman Anna: Carl J. Anderson, Sheffield; Mrs. Mary McCracken, Warren; Mrs. Stella Erickson, Warren; Mrs. Ann Rathbun, Sugar Grove; E. E. Lundquist, Warren.

Plans were discussed for the holding of a big Democratic picnic and rally to be held later in the summer. Speakers of national importance will be invited to attend the affair and it is expected that one of the greatest events of the kind ever held in Warren County will result.

Much Damage Is Caused By Freak Storms

By the Associated Press

A freak summer storm, accompanied by rain, hail, lightning and wind, battered parts of eastern Pennsylvania last night.

Cooler weather was predicted today for the rest of the state, which sweltered under the season's worst heat wave over the weekend, scattered showers early today sent the mercury skidding.

Lightning struck four Scranton homes, cut off power service and felled more than 50 trees, some of which fouled trolley wires and wrecked parked automobiles.

A third of an inch of rain fell within 10 minutes, together with hailstones—some as large as goose eggs. Wind reached a velocity of 30-miles-an-hour.

Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia, with respective temperatures of 97, 96 and 95, experienced the hottest day of the year and the hottest June 18 in history annals.

A quarter of a million Philadelphians, seeking respite from the heat, jammed buses, trains and autos heading for the seashore and country.

William Thompson, 64-year-old Philadelphia navy yard worker, was overcome and died while at work. Lancaster reported one heat prostration case.

Miles of telephone and power lines were torn down by wind. (Turn to Page Seven)

G. G. Greene Seeking Girls At New Plant

Work of remodeling and fitting up the building of the Warren Wholesale Company recently purchased by the G. G. Greene, Inc., is reaching a stage whereby it can soon be placed in operation. Machinery is arriving and being set and the company is now seeking girls with which to staff the plant. In all 50 girls are needed at once and Thursday applicants will be interviewed at the Employment Service office of the War Manpower Commission, 225 Pennsylvania avenue, west.

The work to be undertaken is of a high priority rating and the pay will be based on an hourly rate plus a bonus on piece work. There will be no age limit placed on applicants and the work is all assembly and light and clean. Electronic parts are to be made.

TIMES TOPICS

BENEFIT GAMES

The public is invited to the benefit series of games to be held this evening at eight o'clock by Warren Chapter, Women of the Moose, playing to be in the social field—"somewhere" in India.

DEDICATED ROLL

Kinzua folk united Sunday in paying homage to the men of that village who are serving their country and a wreath was laid at the Honor Roll by Clinton Bentley for his son LaVern Bentley who has made the supreme sacrifice. Hon. Judge Allison Wade made the address of the afternoon and remarks were also made by George Monroe, of the Holy Redeemer church.

SEEKING GAME PRESERVE

The Wilder tract, located in this county near Spring Creek is sought both by a lumber company and the Corry Rod and Gun Club.

The tract contains 1027 acres and is assessed at $5,155. Lumber was taken from the tract over 70 years ago and a stand of second growth now covers it. Pittsburgh parties own the land and it may be that the lumber interests will get the timber and the sportsmen the land.

WILL CHARGE CANS

Fire Chief Alabaugh this morning notified the Times Mirror that he is making a series of inspections about the city and has found that most of the soda and acid extinguishers have not been recharged for two or three years. If the owners of these and similar fire extinguishers take them to the nearest fire stations they will be recharged with the only cost being for the chemicals used.

RWARD OFFERED

The latest in a series of cottage robberies has brought to the Pennsylvania State Police an offer of a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible. Anyone having such information is asked to contact the local barracks, with the understanding that all information will be held in strictest confidence by the officials. These robberies, involving in most cases articles of a household nature, are principally in cottages and camps used only during the hunting season and are frequently not discovered and reported until some time after the entry and thefts have occurred, making most difficult the task of following old trails and stale clues.

Campaign To Get Clothing For Italians

The National Catholic Welfare Conference of War Relief Services is actively engaged in the tremendous task of gathering clothing for the suffering civilians of Italy, victims of the Hun hordes that held them for months. In this city the campaign will get under way this week and the local committee requests that all named below attend a meeting in the Knights of Columbus Hall this evening at 7:30 sharp.

General Committee: Joe Musante, Frank Fino, Dr. James Giunta, Tony Fazio, Ross Gerardi, Frank Bonavita, Tom Williams, Anthony Guiffre, Jr., Frank Mullanero, Joe Lucia, Jiggs Bonavita, Tony Oriole, Paul Copola, Gus Cerra, Sam Pasquino, Mike Gatto, Peter Bova, Gene Mascalzo, Bunny Scalise, Ross Pace.

Carolyn Rizzo, Felicia Lucia, Mrs. Phyllis Giunta, Rita Manfrey, Mrs. Mary Tossone, Mrs. Carl Russo, Mary Colosimo, Mary Grillo, Josephine Lucia, Jenny Mascalzo, Angelina Scalise, Rose Papelia, Mrs. Mary Rock Scalise, Mrs. Sylvia DeStephens, Theresa Scalise, Mrs. Rose Scalise, Laura Platner, Mrs. Al Chairmonte, Mrs. Gus Cerra, Bertha Minelli, Angelina Cerra, Margaret Scalise, Ann Cardman, Mrs. Mike Gatto, Marie Rossell, Mary Rich, Josephine Massa, Mrs. G. L. Fino.

The co-chairmen of the committee are Al Lucia, Sam Gerardi, Al Chairmonte and Alex Fino. Plans are being made to use the vacant store room on Pennsylvania avenue, west, next to the Everts Hardware Store June 22 and 23 as a receiving center for clothing between the hours of 1 and 7 and a particularly fine response is hoped for from the public.

The cooperation of each and everyone is earnestly solicited to assist in the collection of clothing—which clothing consists of all types of men's wear, women's wear, children's wear, infant's wear, blankets, sheets, piece goods, woolen gloves and mittens, material, etc.—IN OTHER WORDS, JUST CLEAN THAT CLOSET OF EVERYTHING!

Collection and packing of clothing will be greatly facilitated if each contributor will be good enough to go over the clothing and make slight repairs necessary such as sewing on buttons, open seams, tears, etc. And it will not be amiss to launder such clothing which may require cleaning.

This campaign is not a house-to-house solicitation. However, the committee will be glad to arrange for pickups of bulky articles or quantities of articles at one place by contacting any member of the campaign just called. Contributors residing near any of the campaign members may also leave clothing at their homes.

Patients From State Hospital Rounded Up

At 5:30 o'clock this morning police gathered into the fold two patients who had wandered away from the State Hospital last evening from about 6 o'clock. The two men, both named Smith, had walked to Warren and were headed out Pennsylvania avenue when found by the police. They have been returned to the institution.

Over the weekend the officers were called upon to settle several family settos. One drunk perambulating along Market street suffering from suspender trouble was gathered in. His suspenders had ceased to be of use and his trousers were draping themselves about his nether extremities so that coupled with what Oh Be Joyful he had on board made his locomotion somewhat eccentric.

Two fist fights drew crowds and the cops scattered the crowds but failed to find the batters.

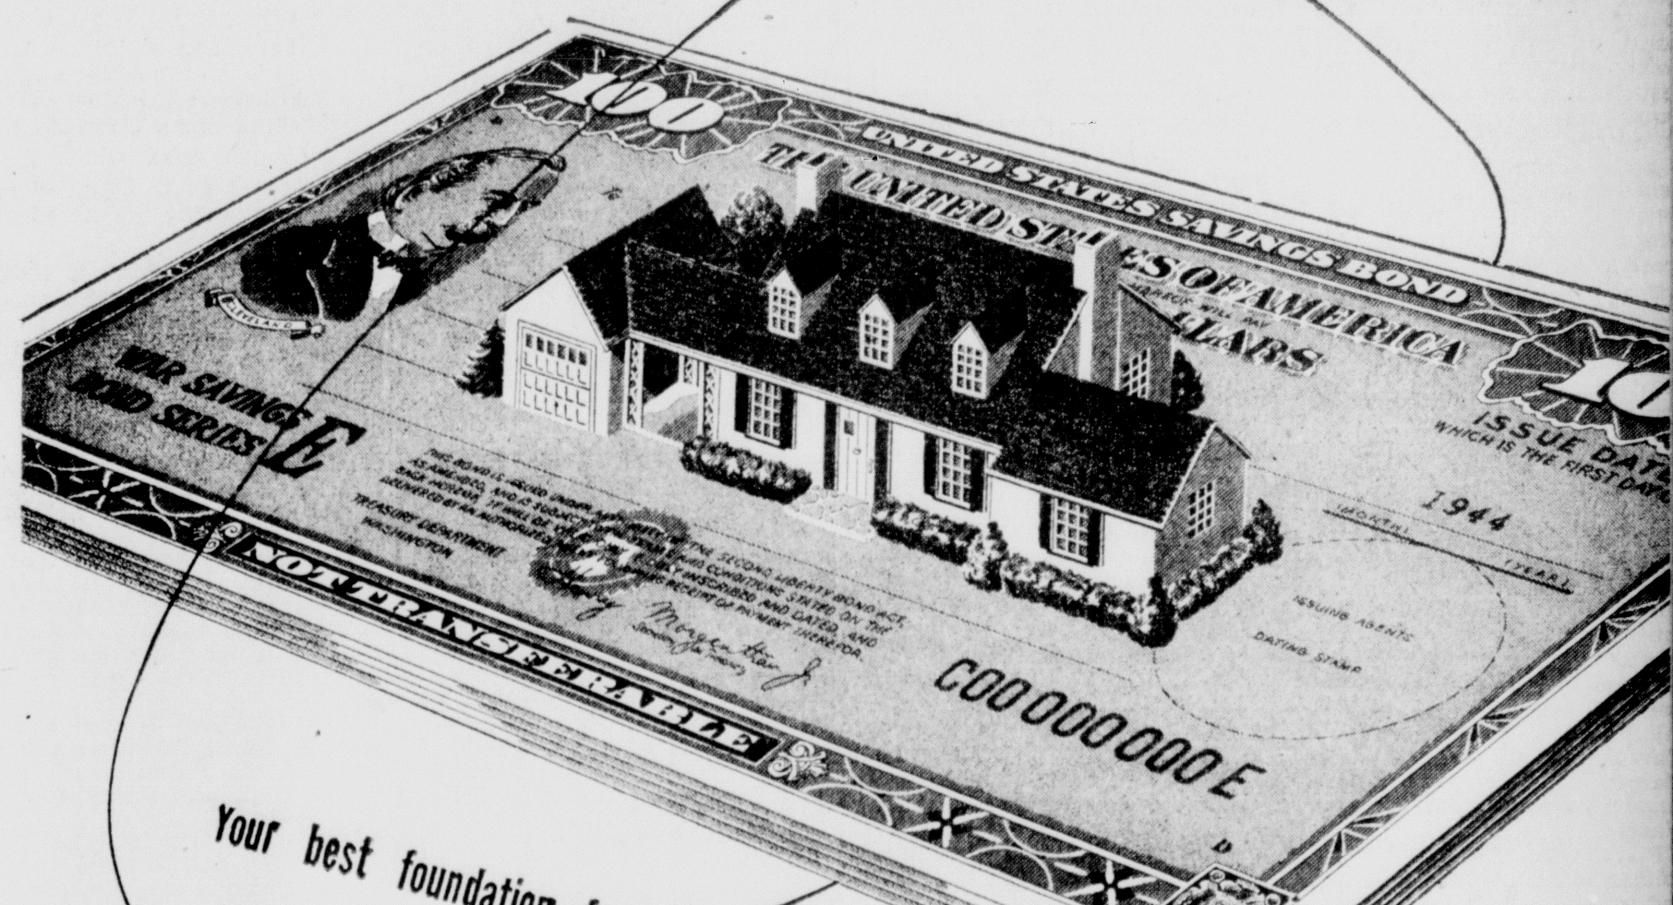

A Scottie dog owned by Margo Carlos, an actress, which had escaped from the police station was recovered at North Warren and reunited with his mistress and she was properly pleased and left for Cleveland happy in the possession of the pup.

Chapter 5

SPRING waited for the smothering silence to lift. The chime clock on the landing ticked crookedly and the candles threw their weird shadows across the floor.

Spring felt as if everyone were looking at her, placing responsibility of Elvan's future on her shoulders; she felt, too, as if the high ceiling were dropping down to crush her. But she knew Dirk's words were right, those first ones. She did see Elvan something. She was the single one among them all who could give or take of his future. But she loved Dirk...

"What happened?" Dirk asked, after a while. "How was he injured?"

Gil paced up and down, his pipe in his mouth. "Elvan was home for a month's furlough. He had some sort of invention he was experimenting with in that laboratory of his. Three nights ago something went wrong. There was an explosion. Afterward, with no other mark of any kind, his vision was gone. Doc Kirkwood says there's no hope."

"Shouldn't he have a man from the city?" Dirk suggested. "A specialist?" Thus Dr. Kirkwood might be mistaken."

"He had a man down from New York yesterday," Gil said quietly.

Jo was crying, her head bent into the curve of the wing chair at the other side of the mahogany table where the vase of forsythia made the one bright spot in the room. Justen went over and patted her hair. "Don't be a gloomy gal," he warned. "We all have our troubles!"

"Is Elvan up and around?" Spring asked.

Gil nodded.

Spring turned away, then hesitated as she walked out of the candle's narrow circle of light.

"Aunt Adelaide," she asked, puzzled, "why do you burn candles altogether? You didn't when I was here before."

"Because I like them!" the old woman snapped.

The habit had started, Spring learned later, from Gil's economy in burning the defective candles from his shop at the dinner table.

But when the last maid had gone into defense work and Drusilla and Jo had taken over the management of the house, the meals were taken in the breakfast room off the kitchen and the candle had been put into use throughout the rest of the house. And Gil's Aunt Adelaide, as a stubborn woman, had ordered all the electric light fixtures disconnected because she preferred the candle light!

SPRING went to bed, but not to sleep. She blew out her candle and discovered she could not get into Dirk's room on the far right. The house where the south window reached out to join the garden, she saw his light go out.

She slept fitfully, and when the boards outside her door creaked and then creaked again, she awoke and listened. Wide awake, she went to the window and looked out on the rain-swept back garden. Once she thought she saw someone below her on the gravel.

She opened the French windows to get a breath of air. The bridge at the far end of the garden stood out against the faintly graying sky. Then she drew in her breath sharply. Someone running across the bridge! The figure, that had been little more than a moving shadow in the mist, was gone, swallowed up in the night. She looked at her watch by flashlight—quarter to five...

Dirk went with her to see Elvan the next morning. It was still raining, half drizzle, and the ground was dotted with puddles. Spring wondered if the men were still working on the levee. They walked down the path through the garden, at last reached the stone bridge that crossed the stream.

Then they saw it—the body of a man lying half over the bridge, his head in the muddy, swollen torrent. The man was Elvan. And he was dead.

ATLANTIC WALL

The fateful fortnight which has encompassed Allied tanks and fears for more than two years ends tonight, and the Germans have failed to mount either the beachhead defense or the massed counter-attack which had been expected.

As a matter of fact, a comparatively small Allied initial force harassed by unseasonable bad weather which interferes with both reinforcement and supply, has engaged approximately one-fourth of the estimated German strength in France and found it only a hindrance.

To be sure, undue optimism is never proper when dealing with the Reichswehr. You can be sure that it has been busily repairing road blocks and bridges swept by the pre-invasion aerial hurricane of the Allies. Paris is a hundred miles away, we have been only preparing to go there, and there may be Cassinos on the way.

But as the fortnight ends during which we expected to learn whether the beachhead would be secure, we do learn, and it is. Not only that, but the campaign for capture of a great port, through which reinforcements can flow by the tens of thousands rather than the hundreds and thousands possible on the open beach, moves, truly according to plan. Word from the Cherbourg peninsula is that the Americans crossed to the western shore through the very points, along the very country roads, as envisaged long ago in the offices of the planners.

There may not be any refugees from Sevastopol—there weren't many, anyway—at Cherbourg, but there are 25,000 to 30,000 Germans there, the reports say, who are about to learn the same lesson. The fate of the German 77th division, which battered itself into small pieces against the American line in an effort to escape, is a sufficient harbinger of that.

The Germans will make every effort to spoil Cherbourg. But Naples was proof of what the Allies are prepared to do with quick repairs. Soon a great army, landed on each side and sheltered overhead by dominant sea and air support, will be forming on the peninsula for the real drive into Hitler's domains. And Von Rundstedt, if he hopes to stop it, will have to produce something more formidable than he has shown so far, including his "scattergun" rocket bombs.

We are just beginning to get some inkling as to how far from easy were the initial landings on the Normandy coast. For the first few days everybody wondered why the Germans didn't try harder to stop us. Now we have the answer—they did. They just weren't good enough to halt the Juggernaut we sent across the channel, though many thousands of American homes will learn eventually how much damage they accomplished.

Perhaps the enormity of our venture and the difficulty with which—we are learning now—it has succeeded thus far will placate those hotheads who were all bothered because we didn't row or swim the channel a year ago without the long preparation that now has made success possible.

PEARL HARBOR PROBE

The House Military Affairs Committee makes it obvious that there is a great deal more behind the fiasco at Pearl Harbor than the public yet knows. Whether or not its charges against Col. Theodore Wyman Jr. stand up, the very fact that such allegations come out, for the first time at this late date, makes it clear that the whole sad business needs a thorough, honest and final airing.

It seems incredible that there is any security reason, in the nature of secrecy, why the matter should not be cleared up immediately. The armed forces do not want officers now engaged in fighting our enemies to be brought back to give testimony at court-martial; and that is proper. But how about at least an inquiry by deposition that will clear up part of the mystery?

We hate to think that here and there around the world there may be other officers against whom such charges as those against Colonel Wyman might pop up from time to time.

SCRAP THAT OLD PLATE

Despite all warnings which have been issued by state officials, many motorists continue to display two license plates—one old and expired and the other new and valid—on their cars.

In urging motorists to discard old plates, officials point out that use of expired tags is a violation of the motor vehicle laws, and that, furthermore, it may cause trouble for other car owners. Instances are reported in which citizens, getting their information from the front plate, "turned in" the license number of alleged violators to the distress of motorists whose valid tags bear the same numbers as those on the expired and illegally used plates.

What It Means

By LARRY ALLEN

THE world may know with in a fortnight how long the war in Europe may last.

For Germany's High Command says the supreme test will come when the Allied armies hit the "Rommel Reception Line."

That's the name given to the great bastion upon which Nazi Germany bases her hopes of repulsing or holding the Allied invaders.

It's the "Second Atlantic Wall."

As I got the picture from Germans and the German press while in a German prison camp, it is a powerful chain of "command forts" stretching from Ghent in Belgium to Rennes, due south of Cherbourg.

It was the area in which the Germans expected attack, but at Rennes the line presumably connects with Brittany peninsula defenses.

I cannot say positively that it was not propaganda, although it did not fit the usual pattern of campaigns to boost home morale or confuse the Allies, but here is how the Germans described the line:

It is composed of vast underground, heavily fortified defenses, bristling with thousands of heavy caliber guns and mazes of antitank traps.

The line at no point is less than thirty miles and no more than 60 miles inland from the Atlantic Coast.

It runs from Ghent to Arras, Beauvais, thence slightly west of Paris along the Seine river, thence southward to Argenton and finally Rennes as the southernmost end.

A few weeks before the Allies stormed the "fortress of Europe" General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel thoroughly inspected the "second Atlantic wall."

He told German newspapermen:

"Here the enemy shall not pass."

"This will be the supreme and crucial test. Every one of these positions must be and will be defended to the last man."

Rommel, ace master of defense for Nazi Germany and nicknamed "the desert fox" because of his brilliant exploits in North Africa, is supported in this view by Western Commander General Field Marshal von Rundstedt.

There is little question but what one of the biggest showdowns and the first real test of power will come when the Allies smash against this line.

It's Germany's "knock down and drag out" barrier.

Even Reichsminister for Propaganda Dr. Paul Josef Goebbels, writing in his newspaper, Das Reich last month, finally admitted that "we cannot stop the enemy from landing but we can and we will stop him after he has landed."

Germany's "Second Atlantic Wall," with much accent upon its alleged invincibility, has been top-line news in Germany newspapers ever since the last of April.

Every German appeared to be convinced that it is on the "Rommel Reception Line" that the Allies would be stopped.

But they're nevertheless looking ahead to the future by saying that even if "by some diabolical perversity of fate" the Allies should smash through Atlantic Wall No. 2, they still have the reversed once-famous "Maginot Line" and the original "Siegfried Line" facing them as major headaches.

No German I have seen appears to be seriously worried about these possibilities. To them, Reichsführer Adolf Hitler is still tantamount to the Divine and until shown otherwise, they think Hitler knows the answer.

Germany's crack air, naval and military strategists, in articles analyzing the Allied chances of success, have declared that they must secure at least two good ports, such as Le Havre and Cherbourg, within two weeks after the initial assault, on their attack is doomed to failure.

These same strategists said that within two weeks after the invasion starts, the answer will begin to crystallize as to whether the Allies can smash Germany's military power, or will crash against an "unbreakable" line of steel and be stalemated, as at Cassino, in Italy.

And if the latter should happen, the Nazi High Command believes that the worst that could possibly happen to Germany would be to emerge with a negotiated peace—and that, in a German's opinion, would be tantamount to victory.

Washington In Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

SAN FRANCISCO — Not since Pecos Bill rode into camp on a mountain lion, using a live rattlesnake for a quirt; or since Paul Bunyan arrived to shake down San Francisco, using big redwoods for toothpicks, has the west had a hero like Henry J. Kaiser.

To California and the rest of the Pacific coast, the big, burly industrial magnate is a miracle man. He strides up and down the coast from Seattle to San Diego; hops off to the nation's capital and gives the industrial east a piece of his mind, and returns to the west hanging on his every word.

Kaiser's reputation is based on fabulous accomplishment. A whole network of production from raw materials in the western hinterlands to finished ships and super planes stems from his four floors of central offices in midtown Oakland just across the bay. Industrial California has mushroomed in a couple of years until only production centers like Detroit, Pittsburgh and Chester, Pa., can claim any comparison.

Perhaps you've already heard of Kaiser's post-war plans for building supercargo and passenger planes, for high-speed trains to replace the rolling stock rapidly shaking to pieces under the pressure of wartime transportation.

BUT if Henry J. Kaiser stopped there, the Pacific coast probably would be relegating him to limbo. He doesn't. The west has one great worry. It's simply what's going to happen when this is all over. California alone has added more than a million population since the last census and billions of dollars in wartime contracts. Kaiser is operating five huge shipyards in the San Francisco bay area, to mention only one section. Once sprawling little Richmond, for example, had about 20,000 population. Now it has about 100,000.

Communities and states like these that don't look ahead are living in a fool's paradise and most Pacific coasters know it. The thing that makes Henry J. Kaiser the fabled character that he is out here is that he has answers for everything.

Perhaps you've already heard of Kaiser's post-war plans for building supercargo and passenger planes, for high-speed trains to replace the rolling stock rapidly shaking to pieces under the pressure of wartime transportation.

Kaiser doesn't stop there. There's hardly a fortnight that he doesn't come out with some new scheme for keeping the west in the industrial picture and the west gobble it up—simply because it is positive that what Henry Kaiser has done over and over again in wartime, he can do once more in peacetime.

What makes California creditable is that Kaiser makes it sound so easy and in the past has never failed to make good his words. If the industrial east wants to stay that way, it had better start figuring how to beat Kaiser to the draw. Ten, 15 million people out here think he's the fastest man on earth.

Advanced Pupils
Of Mrs. Eaton In Pleasing Recital

Rachel W. Eaton presented a group of her advanced piano pupils in recital Friday evening at the Woman's Club. The program was a varied one, holding the interest of the audience throughout with its excellent interpretation of the various compositions represented.

Most noteworthy was the apparent ease with which each student used his consistently developed technique and pleasing tone to express the musical thought of each composition.

Those giving piano selections were Emma Hansen, Patty Brown, Joanne Chester, Elizabeth Dunham, Teresa Marie Fino, Lois Jean Hulings, Donald Wood, Helen McCuine, Joyce Gilson and Marcia Johnson. Elizabeth Dunham also played a flute solo very commendably.

This group was charmingly assisted by Gloria Hausaman, soprano pupil of Elizabeth Naylor. She sang with a beauty of tone and artistic understanding rare in so young a singer and her interesting group of songs was enthusiastically received.

The young people are to be commended for presenting a very pleasant and satisfying musical evening.

Outdoor Dance
Definitely Part
Of Friday Event

It is learned today that outdoor dancing will definitely be one of the features for the community young people's party to be held Friday evening at Beatty school.

Jim Farrell and his committee will work this evening under the supervision of Homer B. Fleming to get the outside cement court in shape. Other boys on this committee are Don Owens, Guillio Fino, Jack Cooney, David Spies, Allan Woodruff and David Leidig.

Last night at the meeting of party committee heads, Mr. Fleming suggested that more volunteers could be used. Anyone wishing to help is asked to go to the Beatty court this evening at seven o'clock. An ice scraper and stiff push broom should be brought if possible.

Outside summer dancing on a properly treated cement surface has been tried successfully in many communities. The Community P.T.A. Council is financing the local court project and is expecting a good turnout of young people on Friday night.

Nick Geracimos and Mac McCarthy have charge of the music, and they have promised a good orchestra. Dancing will start at 8:30 and all young people from 14 to 20 years of age are eligible.

HOLLYWOOD—Our thank to the Oscar-winners who went to bat for this temporary refugee from glammer. . . . And now, what better way to ease back into the greasepaint-and-tinsel groove than a visit to Bob Hope and his new comedy set?

It's "The Princess and the Pirate" and my visit starts off true to form. I climb the ladder to the deck of Goldwyn's pirate ship and the first person I see is Hal McAlpin, the still photographer.

"It was a great scene you just missed," he says, and that puts me right back in the groove. Sometimes I think I have missed more great scenes than anybody else in town. I am the fellow who, with a keen scientific interest in chorines, am always being lured to studios to see a new set of the choicer specimens at work. I arrive breathless, only to find that the schedule has just been switched and wouldn't I like to see Charles Coburn's new set of whiskers in dramatic scene instead? I know how frustrated scientists feel. It is fate though, and when McAlpin tells me I have just missed a great scene, I know I'm on the beat again.

MY OLD friend Walter Brennan is around, and Walter tells me his part is really a bit, not that he minds, but it isn't much. But when we all go to a projection room to see the "rushes" of preceding day's work, and we're all howling and telling each other how funny it all is, everybody howls as loudly at Brennan's scenes as at Hope's.

"That's an intriguing role you have there," I say to Walter afterward. But Walter already is beaming. "Yes," he says, happy as a baby. "He's an interesting little fellow, the ship's tattooed. This part."

So I know I'm in Hollywood, among actors and such, and I'm in the groove again, and it's good to be back.

Newhouser, Tiger Southpaw Finally Fulfils His Ambition To Become Leading "Lefty"

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Hal Newhouser, of the Detroit Tigers, finally is fulfilling the promise he gave five years ago of becoming the finest lefthander in the American League.

The 23-year-old southpaw yesterday became the first pitcher in the league to win 10 games, helping the Tigers take both games of a double header from the league-leading St. Louis Browns, 4-3 and 7-5.

The Chicago White Sox took two games from the Cleveland Indians, 3-2 in ten innings, and 6-5. A home run by Wally Moses in the 10th won the opener for Relief Pitcher Gordon Maltzberger; his sixth win of the year against one loss. Moses' triple and Leroy Schalk's sing in the ninth gave the White Sox the second game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and Philadelphia Phillies divided their two games, the Dodgers winning the first, 7-3, and the Phillies taking the second, 6-2.

The St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates split a double header. Mort Cooper won his sixth game in the opener, 12-2, and Fritz Ostermueller tamed the Cards, 5-1, with three hits in the nightcap. Stan Musial connected for two triples and a double in the opener.

After losing the opener to the Boston Red Sox, 9-6, Washington took the nightcap, 10, behind the four hit pitching of Early Wynn. Cincinnati defeated the Chicago

New York Yankees twice, 4-0 and 8-6, to drop the world champions into sixth place. Luke Hamlins blanked the Yankees with four hits in the opener, with Frank Hayes hitting his eighth homer to tie Roy Cullenbine for the league lead. A six-run first inning enabled the A's to win the second, 8-6.

Forge Stages Counter-Attack Against Erie Pontiacs After Stalemate Lasting 6 Innings

The National Forge continued its winning ways against the Erie Pontiacs, taking a lop-sided game Sunday at Wilder Field by the score of 18 to 2. For the first six innings Erie led Forge 2 to 1, but this was some kind of a tip-off to the locals who staged a counter-attack on Gaines with the score knotted 2-2 and runners on first and third when J. Massa drove his second home run of the season onto the pavement in deep right field.

Forge pushed four more over in the seventh and followed by seven more in the eighth. J. Massa, Morrison and Rosequist led the hitting with three each. McKinney and Gagliardi each had two hits. Natale and Hines were the only regulars on the team who failed to get a single.

Hines was in his usual fine form chalking up his fourth win of the season. Freeborough relieved him in the seventh and pitched shut out ball.

The largest crowd of the season was on hand to see the Forge break loose—as had been predicted.

The Meadville Pioneers will be the attraction at Wilder Field Sunday, June 25th at three p.m. The box score.

Allied Planes Strike Hard Over Channel

Fighter-bombers blasted to pieces one concentration of several hundred Germans. Col. Donald Blakeslee's U. S. Mustang group saw what looked like a big procession of citizens out for a ride in horse shays, but when the pilots "buzzed" the cavalcade for a closer look German soldiers dived for cover. The ammunition-loaded "shays" were sent up in a string of firecracker explosions while horses scampered across the streets of Tilly.

The Germans apparently are making increased use of horse-drawn vehicles, indicating perhaps a shortage of motor vehicles or necessity of using horses to go over or around battered roads.

The Germans hurled more winged bombs at southern England today.

Traveling Man Dies of Heart Attack in Car

Mr. Collier was born in Stockton, N. Y., June 3, 1898, and had lived in the vicinity of Jamestown all his life. He is survived by his wife, Ruth Collier, and daughter, Jeanne Marie. A sister, Mrs. Sylvia Headlund of Jamestown, also survives. He was a member of Mt. Moriah Lodge of Masons, in Jamestown, and the First Baptist church at Stockton, N. Y. Plans for the services have not been completed.

With The American Forces in Normandy, June 19—(P)—The American forces were eight miles from Cherbourg tonight.

On the beachhead side the German air force virtually had disappeared, which might be an indication that Marshal Erwin Rommel was conserving his forces for an all-out attack.

While the Germans were expected to attempt destruction of the port of Cherbourg, they are unlikely to prevent its use by the Allies. The naval docks, especially, are hewn out of solid rock and there is little the Germans can do against these.

It was disclosed today that on the eastern end of the beachhead Montgomery has under his command the British Seventh Armored Division, famed as the "Juba," or "desert rat" division.

The new victory apparently assured the ultimate possession of Cherbourg, France's third most important port, as a base of operations from which the Allies might enlarge and solidify the continental toehold which their military leaders already have declared secure against any attack the Germans may bring against it.

Dramatic isolation of the strategic peninsula was accomplished early yesterday by United States forces, headed by the battle-tried Ninth Division.

They burst through the neck of the peninsula near Barneville-sur-Mer—just as the Allied command planned it.

Party activities get under way formally Wednesday with convening of the resolutions committee.

Bradley's Troops Amass Strength To Capture Port

(Turn to Page Seven) one American trans-peninsular spearhead has been within four miles of La Haye for several days. If this spearhead takes the town of La Haye, the Germans in that area will be in another pocket—between St. Lo D'Ourville and the Atlantic coast.

A third American column under Bradley's command struck south of Lison to within six miles of St. Lo, important rail and highway junction in the Vire river valley, 42 miles south of Cherbourg.

Almost all the advances on the Normandy beachhead reported today by supreme headquarters were on the American side except at Tilly-sur-Seulles, 11 miles west of Caen, where a British division broke through German defenses in a small breach and was fighting in the streets of Tilly.

All along the rest of the beachhead front there were brisk small actions as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Allied ground commander, built up his forces for a typical "Monty" punch backed up by thousands of big guns.

Beach areas were quiet, with the wind at "force two," and unloading of men and material proceeded at a rapid rate.

BULLETIN

At 21st Army Group Headquarters, June 9—(P)—American forces which cut through Cherbourg Peninsula have widened their corridor by twice its size yesterday in the area northwest of St. Sauveur.

Borst and Reid Are Arrested Following Break From Jail

Harold Borst, 20 and Alvin Harry Reid, 18, the two boys who escaped from the county jail Thursday afternoon were arrested in Ridgway Friday after having been tracked to the home of a half-sister, Mrs. Percy Simons. The boys got out of jail here, hid in the woods nearby until late Friday night and then walked to Roystone where they hitchhiked to Kane and from there got to Ridgway.

The arrest of the boys followed a tip telephoned to the Borough Police Station by Mrs. Martin Carlson, Jackson Run road. Lieut. M. Evan took the call and after summoning Sheriff L. E. Linder the two officers drove to Kane. Here they contacted Chief of Police Pat Nelsen and he aided them in their search there. It was discovered that the boys had broken into the home of Reid's father and taken some cigarettes. Tracks leading from the house to the railroad tracks pointed toward Ridgway. Chief Nelsen told the officers Reid had a half-sister in Ridgway and so they drove to that place. Chief Harry Hill and men of the Ridgway force accompanied the Warren officers to the relatives home where both boys were caught. They surrendered with no trouble to the officers and were returned to the jail here.

According to the story told to the officers by the boys they broke out of the jail and ran to Fifth avenue. From there they went to the hillside and hid in a dense copse of woods until late Thursday night. They then walked across the hill and came down at Beech street. Continuing their way west they got to the F.N. railroad tower. There they changed their plans and coming back to Warren went up on the hill again coming down on Fifth avenue. Crossing the Fifth avenue bridge across the Conewango creek the boys dodged cars, etc. and got down to Oak street and crossed the river on the railroad
